Our Holy Father Francis is turning heads asking us to reexamine what is most basic about being a Christian. In that spirit, it’s a good time to take a step back and reexamine what is most basic to our liturgical gatherings as Christians. Vatican II’s Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy, whose 50th anniversary we celebrate this December, states: “In the restoration and promotion of the sacred liturgy, [the] full and active participation by all the people is the aim to be considered before all else.” (#14)

That’s pretty clearly put. We should all mount it on our walls, mirrors, computer screens. Is everything you plan – hymns, anthems, psalms, instrumentals – calibrated for maximum participation? And what does liturgical participation look like. Interior prayer in a community worship – that might be trickier than you think! Or maybe just multivalent. Something to think about.

If you like thinking about this kind of thing – how our liturgical and musical practice meets up with the dreams of a renewed Christian liturgy – you need to be a member of NPM, both your local chapter (Washington, DC or Arlington, VA) and at the National Level. Chapter membership forms are included in this month’s newsletter and can be found on our chapter websites. To join at the National level, go to www/npm.org. And while you are there, consider all the opportunities for study, service and fellowship provided by NPM. Join us as we continue to “foster the art of musical liturgy.”

Which Hat Are You Wearing?

Why cantor workshops are important.

It's common for a parish to have just a single person “leading” the singing at Mass, and few parishioners would be aware that he or she is wearing more than one hat. Yet that single person is, in fact, switching hats throughout the Mass – sometimes he or she is a psalmist, sometimes a cantor, sometimes a leader of song.

Sing to the Lord, the bishops document on Music in Divine Worship, describes the role of the psalmists, noting that they are proclaiming the Word (STL 34-36). The skills and preparation required are similar to what is expected of lectors. Psalmists can be separate from the choir, and may or not be the cantor at the Mass. It’s a special and honorable hat to wear.

The role of cantors is addressed in the bishops' document (STL 37-49), and assumes that all cantors are leaders of song – as most are. But there may be instances where a person who is not comfortable with the usual role of a cantor (e.g. singing solo on verses) could excel as a song leader, bringing in the assembly on time, etc. The song leader’s hat sometimes goes unrecognized in parishes.

The point is that our assemblies thrive with good leadership, and there are different roles to be played. Learning about those roles and ways to effectively play them are the basis of our cantor workshops. And that is why cantor workshops are important!

WELCOME TO THE NEIGHBORHOOD!

The Washington, DC and Arlington, VA Chapters of NPM officially welcome Rita Thiron to her new position as the Executive Director of the FDLC. We have hope that she will continue the excellent work begun by Lisa Tarker. The following is from the announcement issued by Msg. John Burton, chair of FDLC Board:

The Board of Directors of the Federation of Diocesan Liturgical Commissions is happy to announce the appointment of Rita Thiron as Executive Director of the Federation of Diocesan Liturgical Commissions. Rita comes to this new position from the Diocese of Lansing, Michigan where she served in the Office of Worship since 1993. Her pastoral liturgical service has provided rich and diverse experiences in her home parish, through her diocesan office work and in significant national liturgical organizations. She received a Masters in Liturgical studies from the University of Notre Dame.

Rita has extensive experience at the national, diocesan and parochial levels. She has been a member of the Federation since 1993 and has been a familiar voice, a passionate advocate, and a generous contributor to the Federation’s work. In addition to an impressive service record as a Board member, Rita has served as Vice Chair of the Board from 2006 until 2010.

From this experience, Rita has come to know firsthand the mission and structures of the FDLC. She comes to the position of Executive Director with a deep appreciation of the many gifts of the members and a vision of what the Federation can become.
